WEAKNESSES	Reading Zone Coverage / Short to Intermediate Accuracy / Ball Security Under Pressure / Mental Toughness in 4th Quarter

SCHEME FIT	A system designed to stretch the field vertically that uses ½ side and high to low reads

PROJECTION	Starting QB who you can win with in a system designed to stretch the field vertically that uses ½ side and high to low reads. He has very good arm strength and good deep ball accuracy to hit home runs in the passing game, and he throws with good anticipation and velocity to beat Man coverage. He's good on 3rd downs, throwing at or beyond the sticks consistently and is good at extending plays with his AA and moving the chains with his feet. Will turn the ball over frequently as he's marginal at reading Zone coverage when throwing intermediate to deep passes, has adequate accuracy on short to intermediate throws, forces balls into coverage late in games, and has adequate ball security in the pocket when facing pressure.

BACKGROUND	5-year QB who has started 70 out of 72 career games, including 16 out of 16 in 2019. Played in 99% of offensive snaps this season, his first playing for QB coach Clyde Christiansen and OC Byron Leftwich in HC Bruce Arians' system that used high to low and ½ side reads. He played with a solid OL, elite WRs, good TEs, and RBs. He was suspended 4 games in 2018 for violating the league's personal conduct policy.

BODY TYPE / AA	Right-handed thrower who possesses good height and very good weight with solid muscle tone and a well-proportioned upper and lower body, adequate arm length, and hand size. Good overall AA with good agility, balance, quickness, COD, and solid acceleration.

POSITIVES IN PASS GAME

Displays good mental processing pre-snap, pointing out potential blitzers and helps set the protection, good at making adjustments to WRs routes based on the defense's alignment and uses motions to get favorable matchups in the passing game and bring an extra blocker into the formation to help the running game. On short to intermediate throws, post-snap he's quick to recognize/take advantage of Bail or Off coverage by CBs by throwing with good anticipation on Curl and Comebacks with solid accuracy when throwing in rhythm (placing the ball in the WR's chest) with good velocity to fit the ball into tight windows versus Man and Cover 3 or 4, and he has good velocity when throwing from the far hash to outside the numbers. When throwing deep, he's a good decision maker against Man as he quickly recognizes when his WR beats the DB and has very good arm strength to push the ball down the field with good deep accuracy, placing the ball over the WR's shoulder on Go routes outside the numbers and in the WR's chest when throwing in the MOP on Posts and Digs. Good at extending plays as he has a good feel for pressure, stepping up in the pocket when facing outside pressure and rolling out against interior pressure with good elusiveness, quickness, agility, COD, and balance to avoid sacks from DL, and when he's in the grasp of DL he has good play strength to push the ball 10-15 yards down the field, all of which he uses frequently on 3rd downs. On boots and scrambles/off-script plays, he has good quickness and solid accuracy on short passes rolling to the right or left because he's moving and can't over stride, hitting the WR in the chest or face. He's solid as a runner on off-script plays as he has solid agility and acceleration in the open field to make LBs miss and pick up first downs with his feet. Solid competitive toughness overall as he played through multiple injuries last season, takes command of the offense through his pre-snap adjustments, and is good on third downs as he consistently throws at or beyond the sticks and uses his feet to move the chains.

NEGATIVES IN PASS GAME

Post-snap he displays adequate mental processing as he's adequate at working through his ½ reads against Zone as he often comes off WRs too early, missing opportunities for hole shots and open targets on longer developing routes. He displays marginal decision making overall as a lot of his interceptions are a result of his marginal ability to recognize underneath defenders when throwing intermediate routes (between and outside the numbers) against all types of Zones, especially if the defense shows Man pre-snap and rolls to Zone post-snap. Displays adequate accuracy overall leading to interceptions and reducing opportunities for YAC, as he's adequate on short to intermediate passes between the numbers when not throwing in rhythm, frequently missing high (moving and stationary targets) and behind the WR (moving targets) because he over strides, and he misses towards the field when throwing outside the numbers. Displays adequate poise under pressure as he's susceptible to strip sacks because he has adequate ball security by not putting 2 hands on the ball or bringing it closer to his body, and he has adequate decision making under pressure as he throws the ball into coverage if he can't outrun the PRs. He's adequate in the Red Zone as his inaccuracy on short to intermediate throws gets exposed, and he has adequate mental toughness when trailing in the 4th quarter as he throws interceptions late in games because he starts pressing and forcing balls into coverage without pressure and more frequently than normal.
