BEST	Athletic Ability, Speed, Play Strength, Absorb Contact, Ability to Extend Play.
WORST	Mental Processing, Progressions.
PROJECTION	Starting QB you win because of in an offense that gets him out of the pocket to throw, uses him as a rusher and gets receivers open by design. RPO and option heavy due to elite athleticism, play strength and ability to extend plays to go with very good arm strength and competitive toughness. Poised approach in the pocket. Playmaker mentality, especially during crucial situations. Inconsistent accuracy, needs to see window before throwing and can make mistakes due to unwillingness to give up on a play. Fails to read defenses and go through progressions consistently and can take unnecessary risks.
SCHEME FIT	Offense that gets him out of the pocket to throw, uses him as a rusher and gets receivers open by design. RPO and option heavy.
SUMMARY
8-year veteran QB who has started 123 games, including 7 playoff games with 1 Super Bowl for the Carolina Panthers, winning the MVP award during the 2015 season. Played the 2018 season under HC Ron Rivera and OC Norv Turner in a pre-snap motion heavy spread offense that featured 3 and 4 WRs sets mostly and asked him to play both as a pocket passer and to be a ground threat. Elite size, weight and length in a big strong and athletic frame to go with elite speed, agility, COD and explosiveness. Explosive and physical dual-threat QB that can win with both his arm and legs due to an elite athletic ability, play strength and ability to extend plays to go with very good competitive toughness and arm strength, good poise and a "playmaker" mentality. Identifies defensive alignments and potential blitzers and calls motions, protections and audibles pre-snap with efficiency and success. Displays solid accuracy on short and intermediate throws, especially to the middle of the field when he throws with zip and in a straight trajectory. Very good arm strength, capable of stretching the field, throwing 40+ yards without trouble and with very good velocity as well as throwing on the run and from unconventional sets. Good poised QB, steps into the pocket while maintaining eyes downfield and hangs in there until the last second despite pressure and hits. Competitive leader that carries the team around him and makes plays, particularly on critical situations such as 3rd downs, playing from behind and goal line situations. Elite ability to extend plays by escaping the pocket, absorbing hits inside the pocket and avoiding contact due to an elite play strength, athletic ability and a clear will to win. Very dangerous as a runner in the open field and in goal line situations due to his speed, COD and play strength, while fighting for extra yards and breaking tackles. Adequate decision making due to struggles to run through his progressions, as he begins to work through them but reacts and throws to the first opportunity he sees without waiting for the play to develop or due to a misread, especially in the middle of the field, causing him to leave receivers open. Takes unnecessary risks and refuses to recognize a dead play and get rid of ball or fall to the ground. Inconsistent arm slot and mechanics that cause accuracy issues and struggles as a precision thrower as he overthrows receivers in deep and intermediate throws that require touch and timing, as well as being an adequate deep ball thrower. Starting QB you win because of. Elite athleticism, play strength and ability to extend plays to go with very good arm strength and competitive toughness. Wins with speed, size and arm strength to go with an aggressive approach and a poise approach in the pocket. Displays very good mental toughness and a playmaker mentality, especially during crucial situations. Inconsistent accuracy needs to see window before throwing and can make mistakes due to unwillingness to give up on a play. Fails to read defense and go through progressions consistently and can take unnecessary risks.
