BEST	Athletic Ability, Hands, and Separation Ability
------	---

WORST	Play Strength, Gap blocking, Pass Protection
-------	--

PROJECTION	A solid starting tight end, with good foot quickness, mental processing and COD to be valuable receiving threat. Understands leverage in route running and is comfortable with press or man coverage from solid competition. Will struggle as an in-line tight end in Gap run scheme and working in space in run game.

SUMMARY

2nd-year TE that has started 10 of 31 games. Played both seasons under HC Jack Del Rio and OC Bill Musgrave who favors a Gap run scheme. Part of rotational group at TE. Played predominantly as H/U tight end, featured in RZ packages. Has good height and weight with solid athletic ability, with good agility, solid balance, COD, quickness at LOS, and acceleration. Displays impressive foot quickness at the LOS and solid explosion out of a three point stance in all phases. Good first-step explosion, including solid play strength to execute blocks at LOS in Zone scheme. Good technique on Reach blocks, with understanding of angles at LOS to get across solid defenders at snap. Solid in Combo blocks, with mental processing and AA to reach appropriate physical landmarks. Immediate quickness and explosion off of LOS chews up cushions quickly, leading to success in short to intermediate passing game. Solid overall ability to separate, using solid play strength and good hand-fighting skills to separate at LOS against Press coverage and throughout route against Off coverage. Solid mental processing skills, recognizing when to sit in voided zones or work back in scramble situations. Understands and maintains leverage in routes, using head fakes in route stems and quickness/COD to separate at top of route. Good hands that can adjust outside of frame to secure catch, including catching the ball in traffic with contact imminent. After the catch, uses solid AA to gain yards with good foot speed to separate in open field against all defenders, with ability to turn short gains into significant plays. Solid foot quickness and explosion to hit set points in pass protection. Adequate ability in Gap scheme with adequate upper body strength, struggles to maintain gap control against solid competition. Punch timing and location is inconsistent in run game, with playside hand routinely shooting outside of defenders frame while feet stop, leading to loss of leverage at POA on edge runs. Adequate competitive toughness and aggressiveness to win 1-on-1 at LOS every down against solid competition, leads to apparent disinterest in sustaining efforts beyond initial contact in run game. Struggles to accurately gauge angles in run game at second-level with adequate footwork and pad level in space. Adequate in pass pro, with adequate punch timing that allows defenders to get hands on him first, lacks lower body strength to anchor and competitiveness to recover versus counter moves. Adequate Chip blocker that loses leverage at LOS by lunging into blocks and missing with contact. In 2-point stance, footwork is inconsistent against Press coverage from solid competition, with false step of left foot at LOS leading to loss of explosion in passing game. Adequate lower body strength to break tackles after catch. Overall, a solid receiving tight end, with good foot quickness, mental processing and COD to be valuable receiving threat. Understands leverage in route running and is comfortable with press or man coverage from solid competition. Will struggle as an in-line tight end in Gap run scheme and working in space in run game.
