SUMMARY

6th year OG that has started 74 of 78 career games. In 2018, started 10 of 16 games (including 1 playoff game), missing 5 games due to injury (Hamstring) and playing 56.8% of snaps at RG. 1styear in SEA Very good height, weight and elite arm length with solid AA, including solid quickness, agility and balance. Solid run blocker, showing solid knee and ankle bend, very good play strength and solid balance to stalemate solid through elite DL at the POA in 1 on 1 situations in Zone and Gap schemes while executing Base and Down blocks. Good mental processing when Combo blocking, using good vision and anticipation to quickly get to the second level Solid in Pass Pro, showing solid balance and solid angles to maintain half-man relationships. Flashes good ability to process and anticipate stunts, passing off rusher he is engaged with and picking up a looping defender showing solid play speed. Against very good DL, good ability to anchor with a balanced base that is farther back than defenders, creating greater linear leverage. Exhibits very good competitive toughness in both the Run and in Pass Pro, playing with maximum effort through the whistle. Adequate UOH, with slow timing and adequate hand placement, struggling to keep elbows tight and inside when punching defenders, resulting in elbows flaring out, allowing defenders to get good hand placement. Adequate OZ blocker, with adequate lateral quickness to position hand and hips to gain leverage and hook OL. On Combo blocks as an uncovered OL, struggles as a Drive Man to step with same foot and shoulder to displace DL. When climbing to 2nd level, lunges at agile LBs who easily get around him. In Pass Pro, has difficulty changing directions against good to elite DL who use a combination of jab steps and various hand moves to get him off balance. Overall, he is a starter who fits within a power and inside zone running scheme where he can utilize his size and play strength. Will provide solid pass protection, using his good ability to diagnose and pick up stunting DL and LBs. Will struggle in running schemes that require him to move laterally and execute Reach and Cutoff blocks
