WORST	Edge Rush, Bend, Leverage
-------	---------------------------

PROJECTION	Overall a solid starting DE you can win with who excels as a 2-down edge-setting run defender and can create solid pressure from the interior due to effort and pursuit. Likely has already hit his peak and history of knee injuries at his age is a concern.
------------	--

SCHEME FIT	Best suited as a strongside DE in 4-3 and should be rotated out or moved inside as a change-of-pace rusher on obvious passing downs due to marginal edge rush ability and lack of speed/bend. Can also play as a 5t DE in 3-4 scheme.

SUMMARY

8th-year pro who has started 65-of-97 games w/TEN (08-11), SEA (12) and DET (13-15). 2nd season as starting LDE under DC Teryl Austin and DL Coach Kris Kocurek in DET's 1-gap 4-3 scheme, moves inside to DT in obvious passing situations. Coming off offseason arthroscopic surgery and has missed 20 games over past 5 seasons w/knee injuries, including majority of 2013 w/torn patellar in L knee. Possesses elite height and arm length with long legs and a high-cut upper body, solid overall build with well-distributed thickness throughout frame. Solid overall AA displaying quickness/agility, solid burst/explosion and adequate bend. Solid interior pass rusher who plays with a very high motor and shows great pursuit, displays solid upfield burst with good quickness/agility to shake/jab-step and keep blockers off balance. Good overall UOH and is active w/hands, often clears with a quick club/rip. Excels on stunts/twists from interior due to quickness/agility and maintains a very tight rush to continue pressing the pocket. Good awareness of set points as an edge rusher, takes advantage of oversets and shows good quickness on inside moves, solid counter ability with push/pull arm-over technique. Good recognition of screens/bootlegs and will break off his rush to cover or pursue QB when needed. Very good mental processing to quickly diagnose the run and has good play speed to execute and make plays on the ball. Sets the edge as playside defender by stacking blocks with solid strength and hand placement/length, good UOH and range to disengage and make stops in the hole, shows good burst/quickness on inside move to make stops in the backfield with very good pursuit as backside defender. Adequate edge rushing ability, lacks great speed/burst to pressure outside shoulder off edge, marginal bend/cornering ability and often ends up on the ground or gets washed when trying to take the edge, must win on inside moves to have success, plays high and leaves chest exposed causing him to take big punches, marginal strength/leverage to collapse the pocket with bull/long-arm (interior or edge) and is unable to convert speed-to-power, also unable to generate much power/burst from a 2-point stance. Leverage issues also show up in run game and can negate his strength causing him to get stood up or sealed when facing down/kick out blocks. Overall a solid starting DE you can win with who excels as a 2-down edge-setting run defender and can create solid pressure from the interior due to effort and pursuit. Best suited as a strongside DE in 4-3 and should be rotated out or moved inside as a change-of-pace rusher on obvious passing downs due to marginal edge rush ability and lack of speed/bend. Can also play as a 5T DE in 3-4 scheme. Likely has already hit his peak and history of knee injuries at his age is a concern.
