WORST	Overall AA, accuracy on deep passes, play strength, mechanics out of the pocket
-------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------

PROJECTION	A solid back up quarterback that can play in a pinch behind a good offensive line allowing him to utilize his very good mental processing pre-snap, good decisions post-snap, good arm strength and accuracy to the short and intermediate areas. Will struggle with accuracy on deep balls, extending plays once outside of the pocket and his overall mechanics diminish when throwing outside of the pocket.

SUMMARY

15th year quarterback who has played in 82 games, including five games in 2016 three of which were starts in Head Coach Hue Jackson's ball control offense. Possesses very good height, good weight, solid arm length on a slim frame with adequate overall AA including adequate speed, quickness, agility, balance and explosiveness. Displays very good mental processing, on every snap he identifies the Mike linebacker, sets the protection, is able to identify Man versus Zone coverage with the use of motion and puts the offense in the best play such as throwing to the smoke route when he sees the blitz coming. Displays good competitive toughness overall, ran the No Huddle-Tempo offense when the defense was on its heels but also displayed very good competitiveness when down double digits by remaining aggressive yet still attempting to move the offense down the field efficiently. Exhibits good mechanics in the pocket, smooth drops, level shoulders, square base, good torque through the core and good arm speed. Exhibits good play speed and good decision making overall, processes Man and Zone coverages quickly on 1 and 3 step drops and throws with anticipation and accuracy. Exhibits solid ability to extend plays overall, including solid ability to navigate the pocket, at the top of his drop he slides to his right or left to give the receiver the extra second to uncover, protects the ball, climbs narrow pockets, and uses his shoulders and eyes to move defenders in order to open passing lanes. Exhibits good decision making, reads high to low, including deep throws down the seam with good accuracy, trajectory and touch, executing the Levels concept with his very good arm strength and accuracy to the intermediate dig in between the Safety and Linebacker versus Cover 2 or with his good arm strength and good accuracy short by hitting the shallow in route versus man coverage. Displays good ability to throw on the run, on designed roll outs places the ball between the receiver and the sideline against off and soft Cover 2 Zone defense. Versus pressure he displays solid poise and decision making, stands in the pocket knowing a big hit is coming from the blitzing safety, holds the ball to the very last second, sets his feet and delivers accurately to the advantageous matchup then displays good physical toughness to get up and move onto the next play after suffering a big hit. After sitting out 5 games due to a shoulder injury, he came into the next two games as a backup and it seemed to affect his overall play including: adequate mental processing and play speed, was not setting pass protection leading to free rushers and more sacks. Adequate mechanics, displays an open gate from the pocket which caused his throws to be late leading to pass deflections. Displays adequate poise, showed a tendency to drop his eyes when rushers pushed the pocket, then attempted to reacquire his reads. Displays adequate play strength, unable to break a tackle to escape the pocket. Adequate ability to extend a play once outside of the pocket due to his adequate quickness, agility and explosion. Out of the pocket his mechanics become adequate, a sidwinder throwing motion makes him susceptible to strip sacks, exhibits a tendency to drift when throwing on the run to his left which leads to diminished accuracy. Displays adequate accuracy on deep passes due to a 3/4 delivery that leads to batted passes at the line of scrimmage, batted passes at the catch point, or passes sailing high and out of bounds down the sideline. Overall, he is a solid backup who can excel with a good offensive line and a short to intermediate passing game. Will struggle extending plays outside of the pocket, making plays outside of the pocket and making throws down the field.
