BEST	Balance, COD, Play Strength, Hands
WORST	Acceleration/Burst, Vision
PROJECTION	Starting RB in a Gap run scheme and a a West Coast passing scheme, who has the ability to contribute in different areas of an offense. He has the ability to be a 3 down back. Need to utilize his size and power getting his shoulders squared to the LOS and to get him to get passes out of the backfield. In the right scheme he can be a productive player.
SCHEME FIT	Gap run scheme and West Coast passing scheme

SUMMARY

4th year RB, who has started 23 of 61 games in his career, including 7 of 16 in 2018. He's been within HC Adam Gase's offense his entire career, and was asked to use his size and strength to run between the tackles, while mixing in a little outside zone run. He was also able to get out of the backfield and make plays catching the ball. Possesses good height, weight, hand size, long arms, even leg to chest ratio with solid muscle build. Solid athletic ability with solid, COD, balance, foot quickness, and lateral movements. Good mental processing to read and react to blitzes. Solid lateral movement to slide and be able to get across the formation and pick up defenders. Good play strength and ability to have a good punch at the POA. Solid feet to continue to slide and shield defenders, along with solid hands to engage and control defender. Solid ability to also chip and chop along with traditional straight Pass Pro pick ups. Good pass catching ability, good hands, hands catcher with soft hands. Solid catch to run transition. Solid acceleration, with good play strength to grind out extra yards after first contact. Good finish and ability to finish with size and fall forward for yards. Good mental processing in Gap/Zone to pick up free defenders, and use solid lateral movements skills to try and make defenders miss. Solid COD, ability between tackles to move and get one gap over from where the run is designed to go. In Zone, can get outside stick foot in the ground and get up in the hole. Solid foot quickness, enough to get in and out of hole both inside and outside. He can get the defense flowing and stretch them laterally. Good finish ability in each run, better once shoulders are square to the LOS, and has very good leg strength. Good competitive toughness in his runs, doesn't shy away from contact and will grind out the tough yards. Adequate vision and ability to create when the hole isn't there. Lacks the vision to see the whole field, and misses potential cut back lanes in Zone or when inside the tackles open gaps to bounce the run to. Adequate decision making and decisiveness, along with adequate acceleration/burst, disrupt runs when he misses the hole. When he does see the hole, slow plays it and isn't decisive consistently to hit it, and his lack of acceleration and explosion, allows hole to close and bust the play. His lack of acceleration also disrupts the ability to get a lot of yards after the catch in the passing game as well. In the NFL, starting RB in a Gap run scheme and a a West Coast passing scheme, who has the ability to contribute in different areas of an offense. He has the ability to be a 3 down back. Need to utilize his size and power getting his shoulders squared to the LOS and to get him to get passes out of the backfield. In the right scheme he can be a productive player.
