BEST	AA, Extending Plays, Short and Intermediate accuracy
WORST	Mental processing, Play Strength, Mechanics
PROJECTION	Solid starting quarterback who showed improvement to his field vision, play speed and mechanics during 2016 season. Fits best in a run heavy offense that includes designed QB runs, play action and half field reads where he is able to utilize his very good AA, and solid accuracy to the short/intermediate areas of the field.
SCHEME FIT	Run heavy offense with a heavy dose of play action

SUMMARY

5th year quarterback who has started 40 out of 42 games including five games in 2016, four games after coming off of injured reserve for a fractured left Coracoid process. Played in Hue Jackson's ball control, efficiency based offense. Possesses adequate height, solid weight, good arm length and hand size on a slim muscular frame with very good AA overall including very good speed, agility and explosiveness. Displays solid mental processing pre snap, when the run box is heavy calls smoke routes to receivers, post snap correctly displays good decision making, identifies the Conflict defender on Run-Pass options, read man on Read option plays and distributes the ball correctly. Displays good ball handling, good speed and good ability to extend plays on play action, designed rollouts or when receivers have trouble separating, able to break contain with his very good AA, allowing him to throw on the run with good accuracy and good touch over the outstretched arms of defenders. Executes very good pump fakes, allowing his receiver to uncover versus tight Man coverage, when in the open field he uses it to fake out defenders allowing him to gain considerable yardage with his legs where he then uses good decision making to slide rather than take a big hit. Exhibits solid poise and good mechanics in the pocket on 1, 3, and 5 step drops from under center and 1 step drops from shotgun, shoulders level, ball near the breastplate, knees slightly bent, transferred weight smoothly with solid pointing of his lead foot just ahead of the target and solid ability to follow through with his trail foot to the middle and right side of the short, intermediate areas. Exhibits solid decision making overall and good competitive toughness, specifically on high/low concepts typically reading low to high, exhibits overall good arm strength and solid accuracy to the middle and right short, intermediate areas versus Man coverage giving his receivers an opportunity to maximize YAC potential. Showed solid poise and decision making versus Fire zone blitzes, hit the Hot route receiver accurately in the Zone windows. Displays solid competitive toughness overall including solid mental toughness and competitiveness in critical situations when the offense needs short yardage by processing man coverage and utilizing his very good speed and solid vision to pick up the first down with his legs. Overall mental processing is adequate, very few audibles, checks or protection changes prior to snap were executed and received no huddle play calls from the sideline. Overall confidence, field vision and play speed were issues that affected his overall game, but showed improvement over the course of his starts including the following areas: Overall adequate play speed once returning from his injury, double clutches, not trusting his mental processing, often drops his eyes and clenches up preparing for hits, shows adequate poise in the pocket, a tendency to leave the pocket prematurely due to perceived pressure and then displays adequate decision making, a failure to throw the ball away, instead choosing to take unnecessary sacks. Displays adequate competitive toughness and decision making, struggled identifying coverages and deciding where to go versus Cover 2 or split field coverages, struggles to execute simple rhythm throws consistently to the short and intermediate areas staring down receivers running crossing routes and throwing to them on time, or deciding to escape the pocket and run. Exhibits adequate play strength and physical toughness, unable to break tackles while in the grasp for fear of possibly getting injured again. Showed adequate accuracy overall and adequate mechanics including, bad weight transfer, a tendency to point his lead foot incorrectly, failure to follow through with his trail foot which led to balls sailing high. Adequate decision making, eye discipline on All Vertical concepts versus Cover 3, failed to hold safety with his eyes, before throwing down the backside seam or backside 9 route, marginal accuracy, marginal touch and trajectory on deep passes led to incompletions or contested situations. Overall, he is a starter in a run heavy, ball control style of offense where his solid accuracy can be utilized in the short to intermediate areas of the field off of play action.
